Mr. Puckett:

Here is a timely and important seminar on recent decisions by California courts on the limitations Propositions 218 and 26 place on municipal water rates, and describe the economic principles used by COSA to develop municipal water rates.

In particular, leading experts in the law and economics of water pricing will examine the legal and economic challenges that are likely to emerge as municipal water utilities cope with the ongoing drought. They will discuss when the substantive and procedural provisions of Proposition 218 and Proposition 26 apply; lessons from recent cases on conducting a valid cost of service analysis; tiered rates; and the State Water Resources Control Board's mandatory water consumption reduction measures as well as compliance options.

This is valuable information for attorneys, water agency managers, consultants, real estate developers, agricultural water users, Tribal representatives and anyone else involved in water issues in California. Register soon, we hope to see you there. Live webcast is also available.
